H2002E Instruction manual
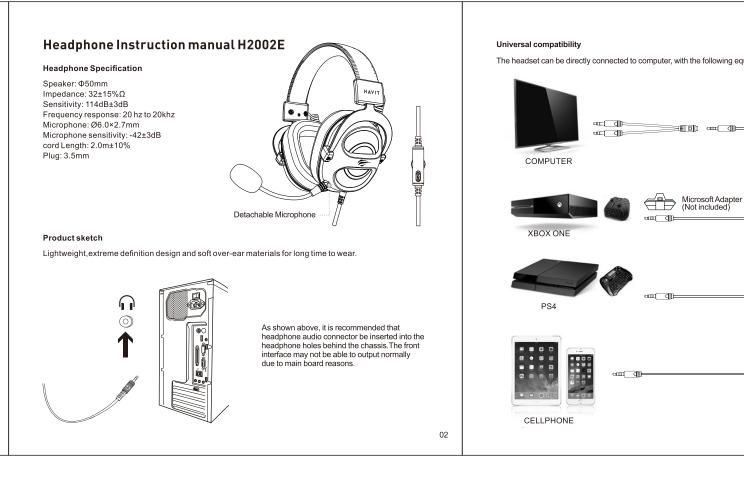

CREATE FOR GAME

Note:

The first time you use the headset, it is necessary to perform a proper configuration test, as every consumer's system is different

Audio setup: You can plug the single 4-section connector into the audio jack of your computer and the computer will display a bar with I and R. You can drag it to the side that may not be configured at the time of insertion to balance it left and right.

Microphone setup: You can add a single 4-section interface with an adapter cable to make it a dual 3-section interface and plug it into the audio port and microphone port of your computer device. After plugging in the device, you can first see if the in-line microphone switch is on, use the predefined configuration of reportk or turn on the sound system, check the volume and perform an audio test, check the microphone input recognition in the audio input options and configure it as Configure as needed!

Notes
